

Parenting in Racially and Culturally Diverse Families – Supplemental Resource Links

Name: Transracial Adoption: Love is Just the Beginning

Link: <https://nacac.org/resource/transracial-adoption/>

Written by an adoptive parent of five children, this article explores the realities of white parents teaching children of color about racism. Topics discussed include how their family approached dealing with individual and institutional racism through teaching children to externalize racism, focusing on the importance of having open conversations about difficult topics.